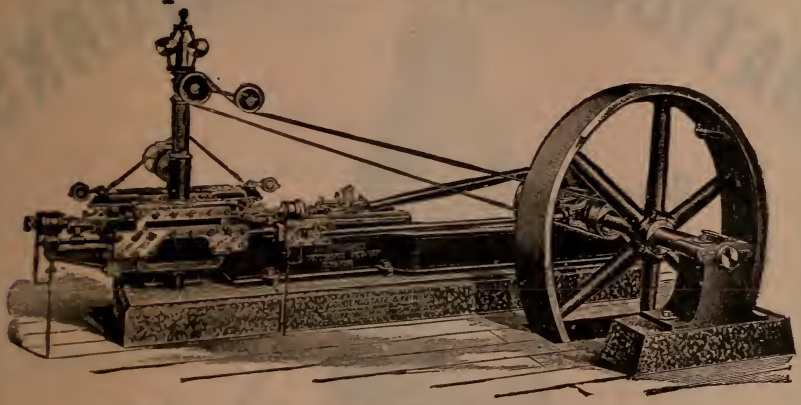
I. F. Thompson's Slide Valve Corliss Engine,



GOLDEN STATE and MINERS' IRON WORKS,

SOLE BUILDERS.

The accompanying engraving represents the I. F. Thompson Slide Valve Corliss Engine of the Automatic, Independent Cut-off type, built upon a plan in many essential features an improvement upon the best methods heretofore adopted in steam engineering.

The exhaust valve rod is continued from the sliding block through the two exhaust chambers, and takes up the exhaust valves each in its own chamber. An arm with steel face is fastened to this exhaust rod at each end just outside the chamber. These arms, coming in contact alternately with the trigger upon each steam valve rod, push the valve off its port until steam enough has entered the cylinder to do the work of that stroke, when the inclined plane, adjusted by the governor, lifts the trigger out of contact, and the steam valve is instantly thrown by the pressure of steam in the steam chamber.

Plain Slide Valves. Instantaneous Cut-off, perfect movement effected without any wearing joints between the sliding block and the valves, and thoroughly effective up to 150 revolutions per minute are its prominent merits.

Following are a few of the Engines of this type now in use and confidently referred to as showing it to be

THE BEST ENGINE EVER BUILT.

A 28 x 40 inch, running the Mendocino Saw Mill, Mendocino, Cal.

Two 24 x 48 inch, running the Ferries and Cliff House Cable Railway system, San Francisco, substituted for Corliss Engines.

An 18" and 32" x 42" Compound Condensing Engine, running the works of the Pacific Rolling Mill Co., Potrero, San Francisco.

A 24" x 42" High Pressure Condensing Engine, running the Oakland Gas Light and Power Company Electric Plant, Oakland, Cal., substituted for a Ryder Automatic Cut-off Engine.

A 16 x 28 inch bore, 30 inch stroke, Compound Condensing, running the Edison Electric Light and Power Plant, Fresno, Cal.

A 14 and 22 x 42 inch, Compound Condensing, running the Yosemite Flour Mill, San Francisco, substituted for a Wheelock.

Two 16" and 22" and 32" x 42 inch, Triple Expansion Condensing, running the Los Angeles Consolidated Electric Railway, Los Angeles.

A 14" and 22" x 30" Compound Condensing, running the Judson Manufacturing Conpany's Works, Berkley, Cal., substituted for a Corliss and a Wheelock Engine.

A 24 inch bore, 42 inch stroke, running Korbell Brothers' Box Factory, San Francisco, substituted for a Meyers' Cut-off Engine.

INTRODUCTORY.

This is the third biennial edition of R. L. Polk & Co.'s California State Gazetteer and Business Directory, and in presenting it the publishers feel confident that their well-directed efforts will be appreciated by their patrons and the public generally in all parts of the great State of California.

Having been engaged exclusively in directory making for nearly a quarter of a century in all parts of the Union, the publishers are enabled to maintain a large and competent force of experienced solicitors and compilers and the most ample facilities for such work which make it superior to any of its predecessors and second to no other work of its kind.

The expense and labor, the untiring energy and perseverance involved in the production of a gazetteer and directory of the entire State of California cannot be measured except approximately and can only be brought to such a state of perfection by a house possessing equal facilities.

The general arrangement of the work is identical with former issues in this state and practically the same as the latest issues in all the other states. All those features which have given such eminent satisfaction in the past have been maintained and new ones have been added.

The first portion of the book is devoted to a descriptive sketch of the state, a bankers' directory of California, list of state and county officers, terms of courts with names of judges, etc., arranged from the latest official sources, with a large fund of useful statistical information pertaining to the state at large.

Following this will be found a descriptive sketch of every city, town, village, hamlet and cross-roads settlement in California, with full shipping directions, and a list of all business and professional persons located at each place. This is supplemented by a complete classified business directory containing the lists of all trades, pursuits and professions, with the names and postoffice addresses of all persons in each line. These are of great practical value and have frequently been made the subject of compliments to the publishers.

All of the data in this volume has been revised up to the latest date practicable and will be found useful and instructive.

The publishers desire to express their high appreciation of the liberality of their patrons and to thank them for it; also to thank the public generally, the business and professional men and manufacturers, especially the postmasters and the state and county officers, for their uniform courtesy and prompt replies to their inquiries for information.

The fourth biennial edition of this publication will appear two years from date, and pledging to improve it in keeping with the progress of the times the publishers bespeak for it the same favor which has been shown this volume.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

To describe California is to describe an empire. In diversity of soil, climate, and productions it easily equals any half-dozen of the other states of the Union, and of size it is surpassed only by Texas. It excels Florida in the growth of the orange and the lemon, and Delaware in the culture of the peach; while it has no rival in the production of the apricot, nectarine, fig, olive, grape, almond, and walnut. Five states in the Union surpass it in wheat production, but it leads all in the yield of barley, wool, wine, raisins, dried and canned fruit. It boasts also of some of the greatest natural curiosities in the world, as well as of a score of the largest enterprises. It has the tallest trees in the world in the Calaveras grove; the greatest mountain-walled valley in the Yosemite; the largest vineyard, fruit farm, dairy, orange grove, and almond and peach orchards; the largest mining ditch, the largest irrigating ditch, and the largest reservoir for the storage of water.

DESCRIPTION OF THE STATE.

California is 770 miles in length by 330 miles in breadth, and has an area of 156,511 square miles, but it is only by comparison that one can get an idea of its magnitude. The state extends along the Pacific as far as from Cape Cod to Charleston, S. C. It is larger than Michigan and Minnesota combined, and nearly four times as large as New York. A single county—San Bernardino—would contain Vermont, Massachusetts, and Connecticut, while an average-size county like Monterey would hold Rhode Island and Delaware and have room to spare. The state extends from the parallel of 42° on the north, which is the southern boundary of Oregon, to the parallel of 32½° on the south, which forms the boundary line between the state and the peninsula of Lower California. The 120th meridian forms its eastern boundary until the 39th parallel is reached, when the state line extends obliquely to the southeast, until it intersects the 35th parallel at the Colorado river; then it follows the river down to the junction with the Gila, where the Mexican line begins. The western boundary is formed by the Pacific ocean.

ITS PECULIAR TOPOGRAPHY.

The topography of California accounts for most of its peculiarities of soil and climate. There is the great central valley region, 450 miles long, that drains into the ocean through the bay of San Francisco, and which includes one-third of the area of the state. This valley is barred off from harsh east winds by the lofty Sierra Nevada range, snow-capped throughout the year, and it is protected from the fog and trade winds of the Pacific by the Coast range of mountains, the only break in which occurs at the Golden Gate. The Sierra is nearly 600 miles long, and consists of a succession of lofty peaks, reaching their greatest height in Mt. Whitney, 14,887 feet. Its gradual slope to the west gives to California the rich and attractive foot-hill counties that extend from the snow-clad mountains down to the warm and fertile valley. The Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers drain this great interior valley, and they have many important tributaries whose sources are fed by the snows of the Sierra. The largest tributaries of the Sacramento are the Yuba, Feather, American, Cosumnes, and Mokelumne, while those of the San Joaquin are the Stanislaus, Merced, Fresno and Kings Rivers. The principal rivers that empty into the ocean, and that have their rise in the coast range, are the Klamath, Eel and Salinas. South of the San Joaquin valley is a great interior basin that does not drain into the sea, and which is composed largely of the Mojave and Colorado deserts, with the rich alluvial lands that form what are known as the southern California counties. The region lying between the Coast range and the sea at the north is heavily wooded, and forms the great redwood belt; while to the south this strip comprises some of the most fertile lands in the state, when properly irrigated. The Coast range never rises above 4,000 feet in height. There are many large lakes in California. Tulare lake has an area of 700 squar miles, and is situated in the lower part of of the San Joaquin valley; it is only 40 feet deep, and its waters are steadily receding. In the Sierra are Lake Tahoe, the most beautiful of the mountain lakes, with a depth of 1,500 feet; Mono lake, that forms the sink of streams in the high Sierra; and Owens lake, that is the sink of the Owens river, and is below the sea level.

EARLY HISTORY.

As a state, California has a brief but eventful history; but as a province of Spain and Mexico, its records extend over nearly three centuries. From the time of Cortez, the Spaniards had an eager curiosity to explore the unknown shore to the north of the Gulf of California. Many expeditions were sent out, but the chief of these explorers were Cabrillo and Vizcaino. The former first visited California in 1542. It was not until two hundred years after, in 1769, that the Spaniards obtained any foothold in the country, and this they secured by the cross and not by the sword. The priest succeeded where the soldier failed. The Jesuits had founded many missions in Lower California, but it remained for Father Junipero Serra, a Franciscan monk, to establish the long chain of missions which stretched along the coast for five hundred miles. Each mission was the center of a great establishment, where the Indians were taught the rudiments of religion, and made to labor in the fields of the fathers. By 1804, there were nineteen of these missions in California, and two others were afterward established. The Indian converts numbered 20,000, while the heards of cattle and flocks of sheep were the envy of their neighbors. Meanwhile the Spaniards had established military posts at the chief points along the coast and at several places in the interior. The country was ruled by governors sent out by Spain, and the land was portioned in huge grants among the wealthy colonists, who raised cattle and sheep. The Spanish authority lasted until 1822, when the government of the country passed into the hands of Mexico. During this period, the missions acquired great influence and wealth; but the jealousy of the Mexican colonists began to be aroused, and in 1835 the missions were secularized. The law provided for the apportionment of the lands and herds between the Indians and the white settlers, but the latter secured about everything. Mexican rule was characterized by frequent revolutions, and the country was ripe for a change when the Americans appeared.

The first of the adventurous American hunters and trappers came in 1826. They were followed in 1839 by Captain John Sutter, who secured a large grant of land in what is now the heart of the Sacramento valley; he established a great ranch, and as justice of the peace actually ruled the country for several years. The arrival of Fremont, the Pathfinder, in 1846, increased the hostility which the aggressive American settlers had excited. The natives tried to capture Fremont, but failed. After some skirmishes, attended with little bloodshed, the American flag was hoisted at Monterey on July 7, 1846, and California practically became a part of the Union, although it was not until May, 1848, that the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo ceded California to the United States as one of the fruits of the Mexican war.

THE GOLD DISCOVERY.

Many immigrants began to come into the country across the plains, but it was not until gold was discovered in the race of Sutter's mill, at Coloma, on January 19, 1848, that the phenomenal settlement of California began. As soon as authentic news of the finding of gold reached the East, there began a rush to California such as has never been equaled in the history of this country. No accurate record was kept, but good estimates place the number of immigrants who reached California in 1849, at 80,000, and more than 120,000 followed in the next three years. The gold rush brought many desperate men to California, but it also brought the young and adventurous, eager to make their fortunes. These pioneers were picked men, for only the most robust could hope to endure the hardships of the long journeys and the privations of life in the mining camp. They furnished the qualities that have made Californians celebrated for enterprise, pluck, and tireless energy. For a decade this rush of settlers continued. San Francisco sprang at one bound from a village to a great city; many mining towns were the seat of trade that was worth several millions a year; when the placer mines were exhausted, the hydraulic method was introduced, and this was followed by the still more costly method of quartz mining.

As early as 1849, the need of a stable government had become so urge nt that a convention was held, a state government adopted, and two U. S. senators elec ted, before the state was actually admitted to the Union, on September 9, 1850. In the annals of Anglo-Saxon self-government, nothing has ever surpassed the skill with which the California pioneers regulated their affairs. Twice was San Francisco called upon to form a vigilance committee to rid the young city of the criminals that threatened to gain complete control of the government and the courts. The work was done thoroughly, and law and order were assured. In the mining camps Judge Lynch was frequently called on to sit in judgment on offenders, but fair play always prevailed, though swift and certain punishment was meted out to the criminals. When the rebellion broke out California was so remote that many fears were expressed for her loyalty; but, though no draft was ever levied, and many left for the Southern army, the state remained faithful to the Union. It was in the darkest days of the war that Governor Leland Stanford and his associates carried on the building of the Central Pacific Railroad, which has done more than anything else for the rapid development of the state. The completion of this first of the transcontinental roads marks the beginning of the great western empire. It brought the country into close relations with the East, and it induced a great emigration from the older-settled states.

POPULATION.

The present population of the state can only be gained by estimate. The U. S. census of 1890 gave 1,208,130. Since then the increase, though not rapid, has been steady and the present population is estimated at 1,450,000.

CLIMATE.

California has many climates, due to the influence of mountains and distance from the sea. In the high Sierra, and the extreme northern parts of the state, one may secure a winter climate like that of Minnesota, with dry, bracing air and heavy snow, while along the edge of the Colorado desert one may select a home where rain seldom falls, the mercury rarely drops below 70 degrees, and the sun shines 350 days in the year. Between these two extremes California affords every variety of climate, but the marked features are absence of extreme changes of temperature, lack of rain during six months, and the stimulating character of the air. California, in fact, resembles Italy and Spain in climate more closely than any other countries, but it has a variety of thermal belts of which neither of the old-world countries can boast. Of course the Kuro-Siwo, or Japanese gulf stream, is the great agent in giving California a mild winter and a cool summer climate. Its width here is fully 500 miles, and its depth at least one mile. By its influence the region between the Sierra Nevada and the sea, which by latitude ought to be as cold in winter as the Mississippi valley, is saved from all extremes of cold, and the temperature rarely descends below the freezing point.

For convenience, the state may be divided into several thermal belts. The first includes the Sierra, where the mean temperature in summer is 65 degrees, and in winter 25 degrees. Then comes the foot-hill region of the Sierra, with a climate fully ten degrees milder than the Sierra; then the coast belt from the Oregon line to San Francisco, and extending back twenty miles, a section where the mean temperature is 55 degrees, the heat never oppressive and where one may do the largest amount of work with the least effort; next to this is the belt that rings the great interior valleys, and which has a mean of 60 degrees; then we have what is styled the "thermal belt," forming the great Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys and the southern counties of San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, Los Angeles, San Bernardino and San Diego. The mean temperature here is from 60 to 65 degrees, and hard frost is almost unknown. The final belt is that which includes the Mojave and Colorado deserts—rainless, intensely hot in summer, and yet subject to bleak winds in winter.

The seasons are marked off distinctly into the rainy and the dry seasons. The rainy season begins usually in November and extends to April. The rainfall varies from an average of about 8 inches in the lower San Joaquin valley to 29 inches in the upper Sacramento valley, giving the average for the state at about 16 inches. With the first winter rains the farmer begins work, and the success of grain and all other crops that are not irrigated depends upon the proper regulation of the amount of rain that falls. After April it is unusual to have any rain for six months.

HEALTH AND PLEASURE RESORTS.

California has many health and pleasure resorts, but the foremost place must be given to the world-famous Yosemite Valley, which lies in the heart of the high Sierra in Mariposa county. It is 165 miles from San Francisco, and is easily reached by train and stage-coach. In no other mountain valley in this country, and perhaps in none in the world, are to be found walls of such great height, rising nearly perpendicular from the base, or waterfalls of such great beauty. The walls inclosing the valley vary in height from 1,200 to 4,700 feet, yet in the face of most of them trails have been dug which allow the tourists to gain points of vantage from their summits. The chief features of the valley are El Capitan, a huge, smooth mass of rock 3,300 feet above the valley; Glacier Point 3,705 feet high, Sentinel Dome 4,150 feet, Half Dome 4,737, and Cloud's Rest 6,150 feet. The valley, it must be remembered, is 4,000 feet above sea level. The largest of the waterfalls is the Yosemite, which leaps down 2,550 feet in three distinct falls; the upper and most beautiful cataract has a sheer fall of 1,500 feet. The other important falls are the Nevada, Vernal and Bridal Veil falls. The state has reserved the valley as a park, and has recently completed a fine hotel.

Objects of interest that vie with Yosemite are two groves of big trees, one in Calaveras, and the other in Mariposa county. The Calaveras grove numbers more than 100 large-sized trees. The tallest is 325 feet high, while a score are over 250 feet; the largest has a circumference of 95 feet. This grove is on one of the main lines into the Yosemite, and has a good hotel. The Mariposa grove is generally visited by those who enter Yosemite by the new Raymond route. It has 427 trees, of which the highest is 272 feet, and the circumference of the largest is 91½ feet.

Prominent among the natural curiosities of the state are the geysers of Sonoma county. They consist of hundreds of springs, many of boiling water, situated in a ravine, the soil of which is hot for a quarter of a mile square. Some of the springs emit jets of water and steam. The most remarkable is the Steamboat Geyser, which blows off steam with a great noise. Another is the Witches' Cauldron, seven feet in diameter, and which has never been sounded by plummet. These springs deposit the various minerals with which they are impregnated—sulphur, iron, alum, magnesia, soda, etc. The springs and hotel are in a narrow canyon which is reached by one of the most picturesque drives in California.

Other well-known mineral springs are Calistoga, at the upper end of Napa Valley, which has many hot springs scattered over several hundred acres; Mark West, Litton and Taylor's springs, in Sonoma county; Napa Soda springs, Skaggs', Summit Soda, Adams', Ætna and White Sulphur springs, in Napa county; Bartlett, Highland and Harbin's springs in Lake county; Pacific Congress springs in Santa Clara county; Paso Robles in San Luis Obispo; and San Bernardino hot springs.

Among pleasure resorts a leading place must be given to the seaside resorts. Monterey, 120 miles from San Francisco, and reached by the swiftest train west of Chicago, is noted for its magnificent Hotel del Monte and grounds, and for its fine bathing pavilion, in which are four large tanks, each 50x36 feet, filled with sea water heated to various temperatures. Three miles distant is Pacific Grove Retreat, once a camp-meeting ground, but now a village of pretty cottages among the pines. The seventeen-mile drive from the Hotel del Monte around the peninsula of Monterey is one of the most picturesque in the state. Across the bay from Monterey is Santa Cruz, a popular resort, which has a fine bathing beach, and is surrounded by a country rich in natural curiosities. The greatest of these is the big trees, seven miles distant. Here is a grove of redwoods of 20 acres, with one tree 18 feet in diameter and more than a score ten feet or more in diameter. All about Santa Cruz are fine drives, with resorts for camping and hunting in the wild Santa Cruz mountains.

In the south the leading seaside resorts are Santa Barbara, which has an unusually equable climate, a good beach, and the famous Arlington Hotel; San Diego, with an unsurpassed beach, fine scenery, and the Hotel del Coronado, on the beach opposite the city, the largest seaside hotel in the world; Santa Monica, the resort of Los Angeles, famous for its beach and its hotel, and Long-Beach, also a noted watering-place.

It is impossible in these limits to even name the prominent inland pleasure resorts in the southern counties. Most of the new towns and colonies in these counties have made a specialty of accommodating tourists, and Riverside, Pasadena and many of the colonies about Los Angeles have built immense hotels for invalids and tourists.

Among mountain resorts the most popular are Lake Tahoe, which may be reached by rail, and which gives fine Sierra scenery, boating and trout fishing, and Mt. Shasta, which rises 14,440 feet above the surrounding plain, and is easily climbed.

WHEAT AND BARLEY.

In wheat California stands fifth in the list of states. For twenty years the fertile lands of the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys have been regularly cropped in wheat, and still the yield remains almost as large as when the land was new. The climate helps the grain-grower, as after the wheat begins to head there is never any danger of rain; all the harvesting operations are carried on in the open field, and the grain is left sacked up until it is hauled to the warehouse for shipment. The chief wheat-growing counties are Sutter, Stanislaus, Colusa, Yolo, Sacramento, San Joaquin, Merced and Tulare. The wheat product of 1892 was 38,554,000 bu., and the exports were 10,767,567 centals, valued at $16,332,225, as against 16,947,917 centals for 1891, 13,014,306 for 1890. The annual average wheat shipments for eight years have amounted to 12,612,344 centals, valued at $22,050,238. The banner year was 1881–2, when the exports were 22,279,545 centals, valued at $36,376,100.

In connection with wheat, California does an enormous business in flour, the exports for 1891 being 1,231,993 barrels, valued at $5,781,590. The exports in 1892 were 1,115,267 barrels, valued at $4,680,704.

In barley, California leads all the states. Last year's crop, 1892, was 12,333,000 bushels. The exports for 1889 were 928,299 centals, valued at $1,031,181.

The hop crop for 1892 was 39,750 bales, as against 36,424 bales for 1887, 28,411 bales for 1886 and 41,231 bales for 1884.

FRUIT GROWING.

No industry in California has grown so rapidly or promises to be of such great value as fruit growing. Most of the fruit trees have been planted within the last fifteen years. It has been found that the old foothill mining counties are admirably adapted to nearly all kinds of fruit, and lands which have been used only for grazing have been planted to all kinds of fruit with the best results. The area of fruit trees now planted is 401,415 acres; area now preparing for planting, 50,000 acres. Number of trees, 40,000,000. To give an idea of what has been done, Placer county seven years ago did not have a hundred orange trees; to-day it ranks third among the citrus counties, while it boasts of the earliest deciduous fruit in the market. Butte county is another instance of the great development of fruit culture. At least one-third of the state is suited to the growth of the orange and lemon, while all the deciduous fruits may be grown everywhere except in the Sierra and immediately along the ocean. Fruit trees grow with great rapidity, the majority of the deciduous varieties bearing full crops in the third year. Besides all the varieties that are raised in the East, California has a virtual monopoly of the apricot, olive, prune, nectarine, and raisin grape. The enormous yield of the orchards outran the capacity of drying and canning establishments, and has led within the last five years to the shipping of green fruit to the East by the carload in fast trains. What this business has developed into may be seen from the fact that, in 1892, there were shipped East by rail 111,688,640 pounds of green deciduous fruit as against 68,084,124 pounds in 1890. Besides this, 77,555,820 pounds of fruit were canned and 58,735,980 pounds dried, while the raisin pack was 53,113,320 pounds. To this must be added the shipment of 69,715,000 pounds of citrus fruits frem the southern counties.

The increase in the canned-goods trade is remarkable. The shipments were 70,326,000 pounds in 1892 as against 46,334,080 pounds in 1891. The growth of the dried-fruit trade is equally great. The output for 1886 was 5,590,000 pounds; in 1887 it reached 10,105,000, while in 1889 it advanced to 33,381,000; in 1890, 43,377,910; in 1891, 58,007,240; in 1892, 65,000,000 pounds. This did not include rasins, in which the most remarkable progress has been made. The raisin pack for 1881 was only 90,000 boxes. The increase since then is as follows: 1882, 115,000; 1883, 125,000; 1884, 175,000; 1885, 475,000; 1886, 703,000; 1887, 800,000; 1888, 1,250,000; 1889, 1,400,000; 1890, 2,056,016; 1891, 2,247,742; 1892, 2,655,661 boxes. The acreage in raisin grapes is increasing as rapidly as that of oranges.

The prune ranks next to the raisin in development within the last few years. When it was shown that from $150 to $300 could be cleared on an acre of bearing prune trees, thousands of acres were set out to prunes and the growth of the product has been enormous, reaching as high as 18,000,000 pounds in 1889, and 30,000,000 pounds in 1892. The shipment of vegetables to the East has been greatly stimulated by fast trains, running through to Chicago in four days.

WINE AND BRANDY.

The wine crop of California will soon be of greater value than her wheat crop. The estimated yield for 1892 was 23,000,000 gallons, and 2,000,000 gallons of brandy. Napa county leads. Every year sees an improvement in the character of the wine. It has been demonstrated that Napa, Sonoma and several of the counties bordering on San Francisco bay can produce clarets and white wines equal to the best French and Rhine wines. Wine exports by sea and rail for 1892 were 10,462,731 gallons, valued at $4,963,638. Brandy exports by sea and rail, 1892, 956,738 gallons, valued at $1,368,828. The chief difficulty of the wine grower has been to keep his wine until it acquired the proper age. A scheme to secure this is the establishment of great wine cellars, where advances will be made on wine received for storage. Much of the foothill land that has been regarded as worthless is found to be especially adapted to choice wine grapes, and the wine industry soon promises to lead all others in California in value and importance.

WOOL.

Though there has been a falling-off of about thirty per cent in the wool product of the state during the last few years, California still ranks among the leading wool-producing states. The reduction is due mainly to the rapid settlement of the state, and the consequent loss of the great ranges formerly utilized by the sheep grower. To counterbalance this, however, the wool has been much cleaner, and the importation of thoroughbred stock has greatly improved the quality. The total production of California for 1892 was 35,802,930 pounds; total shipments, 27,841,099 pounds, valued at $6,000,000.

STOCK GROWING.

The report of the State Board of Equalization for 1888 gives the latest complete record of stock growing in the state. In cattle and sheep there has been a falling off since the census of 1880, but the decline is more than compensated by the great improvement in the quality of the breeds. The cutting up of great ranches into small farms, and the fencing in of ranges, once common property of the stock grower, have driven stockmen to the mountain counties and to the neighboring states and territories. The number, kind, and value of the chief live stock of the state for 1892 are as follows: Horses, thoroughbred 1,680, value $521,465; standard bred 7,134, value $437,619; American 142,819, value $7,997,950; common 172,994, value $5,441,570; colts 95,208, value $1,945,523. Cattle, beef 17,323, value $354,361; stock 596,456, value $6,351,437; calves 296,878, value $857,675; cows, thoroughbred 5,930, value $201,687; American 164,934, value $2,975,984; graded 73,023, value $1,319,702; common 26,651, value $473,631; oxen 2,861, value $87,871.. Hogs, 271,671, value $664,532. Mules, 46,837, value $3,573,557. Sheep, imported 4,070, value $22,904; graded 321,432, value $686,580; common 1,937,079, value $3,943,072.

MINING INTERESTS.

Although mining no longer holds the first place among California industries, it is still a source of wealth in many of the mountain counties. For a number of years the industry has languished, but last year saw the development of many new quartz mines and the introduction of improved processes for working low-grade ores. Large and expensive quartz mills will be found in Amador, Nevada, Plumas, Sierra, Shasta, Trinity, Butte, Calaveras, Tuolumne, El Dorado, Placer, Fresno and several other counties. Three-fourths of the bullion product of the state comes from these quartz mines, hydraulic mining having been suppressed by law, owing to the damage that it caused by the deposit of debris on the agricultural lands of great valleys. The yield of gold and silver for 1892 was $10,712,625. California is thus outranked only by Colorado, Montana and Utah as a producer of the precious metals.

Of other minerals the state produces antimony, borax, coal, gypsum, chromium, iron, magnesia, salt, soda, quicksilver and marble. The most valuable of these is quicksilver, which is mined mainly at the New Almaden mine. The product in 1891 was 22,886 flasks; in 1892, 27,990 flasks.

LUMBER TRADE.

One of the important Pacific Coast industries is the lumber trade. San Francisco is the great market, and its chief supplies are drawn from Mendocino, Humboldt, Del Norte and Santa Cruz counties, although much fine lumber comes from the Puget Sound and British Columbia mills. Pine and redwood are the leading varieties used for lumber. The redwood belt of California, extending along the coast in Santa Cruz, Sonoma, Mendocino, Humboldt and Del Norte counties, is extensive, and the yearly output of the mills is very large. The value of the redwood is being appreciated more every year for the interior finish of houses, as it is easily worked, and when polished with oil or shellac it takes on the tint of fine mahogany. The roots and stumps of the redwood are extensively used in cabinet work. The California sugar pine is equal to the best southern pine. The output of California mills was 450,643,217 feet in 1892. The receipts of pine and redwood lumber and of shingles and ties at San Francisco for 1892 were as follows: Pine, 276,928,880 feet; redwood, 173,714,337 feet; shingles, 131,426,260 M.; railroad ties ,1,285,748.

MANUFACTURES.

Most of the manufactures in California are centered in San Francisco and its immediate vicinity, although the last few years has seen a great development of manufacturing in the southern cities. The state is noted for its manufacture of heavy mining machinery, in which it leads the world. Every other staple article is manufactured on a large scale.

In sugar California ranks high as a refining center. The raw sugar, mainly from the Sandwich Islands and Manila, used last year in the two refineries was 375,000,000 pounds, and the product was 175,000,000 pounds white sugar, 80,000,000 pounds yellow sugar, and 2,750,000 gallons syrup. The exports were 113,975,747 pounds. The growing of sugar beets is becoming an industry of no small importance, the output of beet sugar of 1892 being 23,000,000 pounds. There are now three factories in the state. In cigars, boots and shoes, clothing, furniture, fruit canning and preserving there has been a great advance in the last five years. The cigars manufactured last year amounted to 94,386,-562, while 2,415,340 cigarettes were turned out.

COMMERCE.

The commerce of California centers mainly in San Francisco, although San Diego and Los Angeles have become important shipping points. The state exports yearly over $150,000,000 of her products, and her foreign imports in 1892 amounted to $45,607,950. The total receipts of the custom house at San Francisco for 1892 were $7,822,045, although two-thirds of all merchandise imported comes in free of duty. The leading foreign imports in 1892 were: Merchandise, $45,607,950; treasure, $8,990,386. The leading exports for 1892 were as follows: Merchandise, $40,246,608; of this wheat formed 9,762,-816 centals, value $14,254,905; flour, 1,115,267 barrels, $4,680,704; barley, 1,327,-572 centals, wine, 6,422,994 gallons. The Southern Pacific Company carried in 1891 east-bound 806,422,000 pounds, of which canned goods formed 70,326,000 pounds; vegetables, 95,939,000 pounds; green fruits, 93,398,000 pounds; raisins, 41,-688,000 pounds; dried fruits, 49,652,000 pounds.

Salmon canning is an important industry, which centers in San Francisco, as nearly the entire pack of California, Oregon, British Columbia and Alaska is handled here. The exports for 1892 were 758,517 cases, valued at $3,490,877.

The revenue collections in San Francisco for 1890 were $1,887,561; for 1891, $1,818,-351.

The bank clearings at San Francisco for 1892 were $815,368,724. There were 242 banks reported Jan. 1, 1893, a net gain of 22 during the year; 57 are savings, 168 commercial, 17 private.

RAILROAD DEVELOPMENT.

There were only a few local lines of railroad in California when, in 1862, Leland Stanford, Charles Crocker, Mark Hopkins and C. P. Huntington formed the Central Pacific Railroad Co., with the bold plan of constructing a transcontinental railroad to cross the Sierra Nevada and meet the Union Pacific. Railroad experts, as well as financiers and the general public, scouted the idea of building a road over the Sierra, and no one would advance any money to aid the project. The founders invested their private fortunes in the enterprise, and by the aid of the government succeeded in carrying on and completing the work. What trials they endured, what difficulties they overcame, may be found in Creed Haymond's eloquent argument before the Senate Committee on the Pacific Railroads, delivered in 1888. The road was built during the civil war, and the last spike was driven, with imposing ceremonies, on May 9, 1869. The main line of the Central Pacific extended from San Francisco to Ogden, 871 miles. Its branch lines were few and trifling. The success of the enterprise was immediate, and far surpassed even the most sanguine expectations of its founders. The shortest time in which the journey between San Francisco and New York could be made, prior to the completion of the railroad, was three weeks. This was by way of the Pacific Mail steamers and the Panama Railroad. The opening of the through overland railroad line cut this time down to one week, and it has since been reduced to five days. The Central Pacific Company from the outset has devoted itself to the development of California. Its royal land grant was divided up and sold to settlers, the greater part of the land along the line of the road being sold for $2.50 an acre—land which in many cases is now worth $200 per acre. By 1872 it carried 55,685 through overland passengers, of whom 34,040 were brought westward. The rapid expansion of business induced the building of a branch line of railroad to Monterey, 120 miles from San Francisco, and an important road down through the San Joaquin valley, which afforded a market for the enormous crops of wheat grown in this granary of the state. By 1880 the pressure of business on the central line was so great that it was decided to build a southern line, that would afford relief to the main passenger road. Thus the Southern Pacific was constructed. It was built with unparalleled rapidity, and has proved to be the great traffic highway over which the lion's share of all overland freights are carried. The latest important extension of the system is the completion of the California & Oregon Railroad, which furnishes through connection between San Francisco and Portland, Or. This road presented many engineering difficulties, and portions of it were more costly even than the work over the Sierra. The opening of this road gave the Southern Pacific one continuous line of rail from Portland, Or., to New Orleans, a distance of 5,000 miles. In this state the company has 2,529 miles of road, and it pays taxes on an assessed valuation of $48,972,195.20. It is constantly building new lines. All its main, branch and leased lines have been incorporated under the general title of the Southern Pacific Company, and it operated Dec. 31st, 1892, 6,485.69 miles of road, of which 4,736.30 belonged to the Pacific system, and 1,749.48 to the Atlantic system. The increase of new road was 110.16 miles. Its gross earnings for 1892 were $46,327,450.95; operating expenses, $31,288,199.27; gross surplus, $18,309,922.23, of which $15,699.573.14 was consumed in interest on bonded debt, rentals and other payments, leaving a net income of $2,610,349.09. The other important railroad line in the state is the Santa Fe system, which has a line from the Southern Pacific to San Diego, several branch lines in Southern California, and the line from the Needles to Mojave. It is forced to run over the Southern Pacific road to enter San Francisco.

EDUCATIONAL ADVANTAGES.

When the first constitution of the state was drafted, the pioneers laid the foundation of one of the best public-school systems in the country. For school purposes the 16th and 36th sections of each township were set aside, and in this way a large permanent school fund has been established. Every county is divided into school districts, and wherever there are fifteen children of school age a district may be formed. Graded schools have been established in every town, and grammar and high schools in the cities. With a high standard of requirement for teachers and good salaries, the result has been the formation of a fine system.

Besides the regular public schools the state supports the University of California at Berkeley, well equipped in all departments, and with unusually fine horticultural, agricultural, mining, mechanical and electrical schools; three normal schools; the Lick Observatory at Mt. Hamilton, on which over $750,000 has been spent in apparatus and equipment, and which is under the control of the State University regents.

The Leland Stanford Jr. University, now built at Palo Alto, in the Santa Clara valley, has an endowment of $15,000,000, and is specially devoted to practical training in all branches of education. Senator Stanford, who founded this institution as a memorial of his only son, shaped the lines even broader than Ezra Cornell did those of the Cornell University. Technical training is given in many handicrafts, and special provision is made for aiding poor but deserving scholars. Adjoining the university is the fine ranch, which is devoted to experiments in agriculture and fruit growing. Besides these there are at least a score of incorporated colleges and seminaries for both sexes. There are 4,567 school buildings with an average attendance of 158,877 school children, 5,898 teachers, drawing $3,874,346.88 in salaries. The census children in 1892 numbered 406,320. San Francisco alone since 1852 has spent $22,609,615 on her schools, and the value of school property there is now $4,932,754. California pays the highest salaries to school teachers, and makes the most liberal school appropriation of any state in the Union.

FUTURE OF CALIFORNIA.

Everything points to a growth and development of the state in the next decade which will surpass that of the last ten years. Even old settlers have just begun to discover the sources of wealth that were ignored by them for so many years. Thus ten years ago the raisin industry cut no figure in the state's products, the output being only 32,000 boxes. In 1887 this had risen to 800,000 boxes, while last year it leaped to 2,858,100 boxes. At this rate California, before the twentieth century, will be able to supply the raisin demand of the country. In wine the increase has not been so marked; but the growth is rapid, and California wine is slowly making its way into general consumption in the East. With fast trains and refrigerator cars California is also able to supply the East with fresh fruits and vegetables a full month earlier than they can be brought from other places. This, with her canned goods, furnishes a source of revenue that in a few years will outstrip every other product in value.

In making any estimate of the future growth of California, the size of the state and the endless variety of its resources must be taken into consideration. It has the virtual monopoly of a dozen products which can be grown in no other state of the Union with equal success and profit; it has a large region that possesses a climate peculiarly adapted to those afflicted with lung complaints, and it is upon the permanent demand for such sanitaria that the prosperity of Southern California is founded. In agriculture, lumbering, stock raising, manufactures, and all the other industries that add their millions to the growing wealth of the state, the coming years will be sure to witness a great increase. All that the state needs is industrious settlers, with capital sufficient to lift them above the grade of day laborers, and with the ambition to found homes for themselves and their children. To such settlers no state in the Union offers today so many advantages as California in cheap and fertile lands, varied products, good markets, the best educational and social facilities, and a climate so equable that the farmer and the artisan may work the whole year round in the open air.

During the last two years the growth in the colony system has been very great, and the efforts of all the immigration agencies have been to get settlers who have sufficient capital to plant orchards or vineyards and maintain themselves until these come into bearing. California is not a good place for the man without capital and with no skilled trade. The farm laborer is not employed the year round, as at the East. He gets good wages in California during harvest and fruit seasons, but after that there is a heavy reduction in the working force until the next year. Men with two or three thousand dollars and families, however, will find the fruit districts of California the best place in the world to make a home. Within three years vines and fruit trees begin to bear well, and the labor of children can be utilized in caring for the trees, or especially in picking grapes and fruit. In the last few months several colonies have come from abroad to find their lands planted to grapes and fruits and houses erected. One of the largest of these is a Dutch colony near Merced, all the members of which have means to develop their forty-acre tracts. The returns from well-applied labor are so abundant in California that no man who has means to bring an orchard or vineyard into bearing ought to fail of success. Ten acres in oranges or vines in any of the good fruit districts will yield an income, clear of all expenses, of from $1,500 to $2,000. Such returns cannot be secured even from the best orange lands of Florida or the peach orchards of Delaware.

California State Gazetteer

AND

FOR

1893.

In this section of the work, the cities, villages and towns of California are arranged in alphabetical order, with a description of each place, followed by a list of all persons doing business there, or who receive mail at that office. Railroad stations, flag stations, landings, and places having no mail service are also correctly located.

The names of persons engaged in the following lines of trade do not appear in the alphabetical list of names, but are all properly classified:

Dairymen, fruit growers, grape growers, hop growers, nurserymen, poultry breeders, live stock breeders, walnut growers, wine manufacturers and wool growers.

BAKERSFIELD.

The county seat of Kern county, founded in 1872, is situated on Kern river, a good water-power stream. It is one mile from Kern, a station on the S. P. R. R., 314 southeast of San Francisco. The town contains 3 banks, a flouring mill, 6 churches, Baptist, Catholic, Episcopal, Methodist, Cumberland Presbyterian and African M. E.; a public school, a school library of 400 volumes, and 3 weekly newspapers, the Californian, the Echo and the Gazette. There are several fine business blocks, a commodious school house, a court house, erected at a cost of $35,000, and two first-class hotels. It has a volunteer fire department, gas and water works. A street railway is operated to Kern. The principal shipments are live stock, wool, hides and fruit. Tel., W. U. and P. P. Exp., W., F. & Co. Pop., 3,000. Mail, daily.

The new United States Hotel of this town is one of the finest brick hotels north of San Francisco. It has been rebuilt on the old site of the former United States which was burnt down on the third of July, 1892. It has cost its present owners the large sum of over $32,000, and its rooms are very costly furnished and are in single or en suite, as desired, and are in every respect adapted for the warm climate of the Citrus belt. The dining-room is elegant, large, light and airy, and the table has all the delicacies of the season.

The new United States Hotel is conducted by George H. Cordy, who has a national reputation for his eminence as a hotel manager, and has the faculty of drawing his help to his purpose and holding them faithful to its achievements, by which, as against things to be done, he multiplies himself, and is thereby able to give all of the many guests the very kindest and best attention.

Seriously, it is a good hotel in every sense of the word, and so good that it would be difficult to suggest any improvement.

LAKE INDEPENDENCE

THE QUEEN OF LAKES.

UNSURPASSED SCENERY!

UNEQUALED FISHING!

GOOD HUNTING!

This pleasant resort has been reopened this season under the direction of JAMES MCDONALD, and it will be conducted as a quiet family resort.

LAKE INDEPENDENCE Is situated in the heart of the Sierra Nevada Mountains, at an altitude of over 3,500 feet, and for pleasure and beauty is unsurpassed by any lake in California.

LAKE INDEPENDENCE TROUT Have an excellence peculiarly their own, and they are, by far, the most delicious of all the trout family.

A STAGE RIDE

Of two hours from Boca, over a good road, brings one to the lake, where good boats and fishing tackle are always to be had. A daily stage from Boca.

CORONADO.

This famous suburb of San Diego, up to 1886, was regarded as a sandy waste of no practical value, except as a water break to protect the harbor of San Diego, lying between that and the ocean. The place is now dotted with beautiful cottages and substantial edifices, the most prominent of which is the Hotel Del Coronado, said to be one of the largest in the world, costing about a million dollars. The Hotel Josephine is also a prominent structure, situated on the most elevated point of the peninsula. Manufacturing interests are represented by one of the largest foundries on the coast, a box factory, planing mill and machine shop. A weekly illustrated newspaper, the Seaport News, is published, succeeding the Mercury, established in 1887. Coronado Beach is an incorporated city of the sixth class. It is connected with San Diego on one side by a steam ferry running every 20 minutes; and on the other side by a motor railroad running along the sand-spit through National City. There is an excellent public school and five church organizations. Exp., W., F. & Co. Tel., W. U. Mail, daily. James L. Dryden, postmaster.

EUREKA.

Settled in 1850, and incorporated as a city in 1874; is the county seat of Humboldt county, and the principal shipping and trading point on the northern coast, being situated on the eastern margin of Humboldt bay, a fine land-locked harbor, 15 miles long, 3 wide, and with 75 miles of navigable channels; and with the late appropriation from the government of $750,000, with which they are now building breakwaters and dredging the channel so that the largest of vessels can land at low tide, it will become one of the best harbors on the Pacific coast. Eureka is destined to be a city of great importance. Contiguous are immense forests of redwood, pine, fir, spruce, cedar, madrone, laurel, black, white and live oak. Stock raising, agriculture and fruit growing are carried on. The city is located on the Eureka & Eel River R. R., a standard-gauge road, reaching out to the valley of the Eel river. Its principal manufactories are 6 lumber mills, door and sash factory, 2 molding mills, furniture factory, planing mill, iron foundry and tannery. The churches are, 2 Congregational, Episcopal, Methodist, Baptist, Christian, Adventist and United Brethern. It has excellent educational advantages, having 12 public schools. Besides these it has a business college, and St. Joseph's Institute and Academy for Young Ladies, conducted by the Sisters of Charity, and the Eureka Free Library is also an educational feature of the city. It has a street railway, 4 banks, gas and water works, electric light, a good fire department, 4 newspapers, the Times, daily and weekly, the Standard, daily and weekly, the Western Watchman, weekly, and the Mail, weekly. The assessed value of property of the city is over $3,000,000. The city has no bonded debt. There are three public halls or places of amusement, seating capacity 600, 800 and 1,000 respectively. Telephone connection with Arcata. Semi-weekly steamers to San Francisco. Daily stages to Arcata and Freshwater. Shipments, lumber, butter, fish, live stock, wool and apples. Tel., W. U. Exp., W., F. & Co. Pop., 8,000. Mail, daily. Fred Axe, postmaster.

FORT JONES.

Fort Jones is located in the northeast portion of Scott valley, in one of the richest agricultural and mining regions of Northern California. Scott valley is about 45 miles in length by from 6 to 8 miles in width, and in connection with Quartz, Oro Fino, Plowmans and Moffats Creek valleys, with which it is connected by narrow glens, it has an area of 240 square miles.

It is separated from Shasta valley by the Moffat Creek range of mountains, which are covered by excellent feed and afford a splendid range for numerous herds of cattle and other stock during the greater portion of the year. On the south and west the Scott and Salmon mountains hem it in. These ranges have an elevation from five to seven thousand feet, and cattle and other stock during the greater portion of the year, affording an excellent opportunity for irrigating the foot hills during the hot summer months. Much attention is now given to the raising of apples, which grow on the foot hills to the greatest perfection, and no doubt the subject of irrigation will be carefully studied in the near future.

Scott river takes its rise in the Scott mountains on the south, and flows northerly and then westerly through the valley, finally emptying in the Klamath river two and one-half miles below the town of Scott Bar. Nearly all of the streams putting into Scott river are gold bearing, and some have furnished as rich placer diggings as any found within the state.

Lately much attention has been given to prospecting for quartz. Several companies are now engaged in prospecting and developing ledges and building mills for the reduction of ores. Fort Jones lies in the center of this section, and is an incorporated town of about 400 inhabitants. It is situated 18 miles southwest from Yreka, the co. seat, and present railroad shipping point. There has been considerable talk of extending the branch road to Fort Jones to afford an outlet to the produce of Scott valley, which, if done, will make this place one of the most important shipping points within Siskiyou Co.

Fort Jones has a four-story roller flouring mill, a bank, two hotels, two livery

FRESNO.

Fresno is situated on the S. P. R. R., 206 miles southeast of San Francisco, and in the center of Fresno Co., of which it is the co. seat. Its growth dates from the autumn of 1872. In 1874 the co. seat was removed from Millerton. In 1880, the town contained about 1,100 inhabitants; then a new start was given, that in six years increased the population to 5,000. In 1885 Fresno was incorporated a city of the 5th class, governed by a board of trustees. Fresno has good religious and educational institutions, nine religious denominations—the Episcopal, North and South Methodists, Baptist, Congregational, Presbyterian, Catholic, Christian and Adventist. It has three fine school houses, which cost $15,000 each, and two popular kindergarten schools. The press of Fresno is represented by the evening Expositor; daily and weekly (D.); morning Republican daily and weekly (R.); Spectator, weekly (Ind.); all able papers with a large and rapidly increasing circulation. The new Y. M. C. A. building is the best appointed in the state. The city has also an efficient board of trade, allied with the state board of trade, doing much for the progress of city and county. There are 5 large popular hotels—the Hughes, Grand Central, Southern Pacific, Ogle House, the Kohler, Tombs House and the Pleasanton. Here is also a large and attractive Masonic temple, a magnificent opera house, an armory hall, a new city hall, and an imposing jail building just completed. It maintains an efficient volunteer fire department, with two excellent steam engines. It has large gas works and an electric light plant; excellent water is distributed through the city from 4 wells and cisterns of a capacity of 1,500,000 gallons per day. It also has an extensive telephone system. It has 3 horse-car roads in operation. The city has constructed an extensive system of sewerage, at a cost of $100,000, and has now paved with concrete and bitumen the greater part of its business streets. It has 5 banks and a clearing house. The assessed value of Fresno city real and personal property is $8,247,688. Bonded indebtedness, $135,000. The yearly shipments from here amount to 73,000,000 lbs., including 450,000 20-lb boxes of raisins, 2,000,000 gallons of wine and brandy, 750 tons of dried grapes, 400 tons of dried orchard fruit, and vast quantities of grain and live stock. Tel., W. U. and P. P. Exp., W., F. & Co. Pop., 12,000. Mail, daily. Nathan W. Moodey, P. M.

LOS ANGELES.

The metropolis of Southern California and co. seat of Los Angeles Co., ranks as the second city in the state in population, wealth and commercial importance. It occupies a picturesque site in a valley between the Sierra Madre range of mountains and the sea coast, 482 miles by rail south of San Francisco and 20 north of Wilmington, its seaport. The history of the city dates from its settlement by the Spaniards in the year 1780. As a pueblo under Spanish and Mexican rule there was but little progress, and it remained a comparatively unknown and sleepy hamlet until its occupation by the American forces in 1846. From that date the place assumed a more active appearance, but even as late as 1870, the town might have been called almost a typical Mexican one, with its numerous adobe buildings, sleepy population of 8,000, and inactive, provincial business methods. But a change came with the advent of the Southern Pacific Railroad in 1876, when the new American Los Angeles started on an era of growth and prosperity not excelled in the history of any city in the Union, its increase being so rapid that at the present time it contains about 65,000 inhabitants. It is the center of the railroad system of Southern California. In addition to the main line of the S. P. Co. (overland via El Paso), which passes through the city, there are diverging branches of this road extending to San Pedro, Santa Monica, Long Beach, Santa Ana and Whittier. There is also the Southern California Railway, extending to San Bernardino, and from thence to Barstow, where connection is made with the Atlantic and Pacific. The S. C. Co. also have in operation roads extending to Santa Ana, San Diego, National City, Redondo Beach, Escondido and other localities south and east. The religious denominations are represented by the Adventists, Baptists, Congregationalists, Episcopalians, Evangelical, Lutherans, Hebrews, Methodists, Presbyterians, Roman Catholics, Unitarians, etc., several of which own handsome church edifices. The Young Men's Christian Association is in a very prosperous condition, and occupies a beautiful building, erected at a cost of $100,000. Many institutions of a high character are maintained by public and private appropriations and donations, and secret and benevolent societies are largely represented. Excellent public schools are maintained, with 250 teachers and 9,300 pupils. In addition to these institutions of learning, are the State Normal School, University of Southern California, Occidental University of Los Angeles, St. Vincent's College, Los Angeles School of Art and Design, Los Angeles Conservatory of Music, etc. The Los Angeles Public Library has commodious rooms in the city hall, and consists of 30,863 volumes. There is also the Law Library of Los Angeles with 8,000 volumes. The assessed value of real and personal property for the fiscal year 1892-93 was $52,532,595. Bonded indebtedness $1,359,300. There are 20 banks, all of which are in a flourishing condition; several theaters and opera houses; 5 street railroads, of which 2 are cable, 2 electric and 1 horse line; gas and electric light works and water works. There is an efficient fire department, composed of 7 engine companies, 2 chemical engine companies, 2 hose companies and 1 hook and ladder company. Several well-conducted journals advocate the interests of the section; of these 4 are daily, viz: The Express, Herald, Times, Sued California (German); also various others published weekly or monthly, including 2 French, 3 Spanish and 1 German paper. The climate is mild and of an even temperature. Exp., W., F. & Co. Tel., W. U., also P. P. H. V. Van Duzen, P M.

MODESTO.

The co. seat of Stanislaus Co., near the Tuolumne river, on the S. P. R. R., 114 miles east of San Francisco, 77 south of Sacramento, and 30 southeast of Stockton. Was laid out in 1870, made the co. seat in 1872, and incorporated as a city in 1884. It is situated in a section of fine wheat-growing country, and is the center of trade and shipping point for a large extent of territory. The churches here are Methodist (North and South), Presbyterian, Episcopal, Congregational, Baptist, Catholic and Christian. Two public schools are maintained. Its chief manufactories are a planing mill, flour mill and a foundry. The principal buildings are the court house, erected at a cost of $60,000, the county hospital. Rodgers' Hall has seating accommodations for 500. There are 3 banks doing business here, and 2 newspapers published, the Herald and the daily and weekly News. A system of irrigation for the district surrounding Modesto, comprising 108,000 acres, is under course of construction, which will be the means of enhancing values of real estate and otherwise benefiting the city. The city has gas and water works, volunteer fire department and telephone connection. Shipments, chiefly wheat, hides, fruit and wool. Stages tri-weekly to Coulterville, Sonora, Oakdale, Knight's Ferry, Chinese Camp, Waterford and La Grange. Tel., W. U. and P. P. Exp., W., F. & Co. Pop., 2,500. Mail, daily. Charles A. Post, P. M.

OAKLAND.

The co. seat of Alameda Co., is situated on the east side of San Francisco bay, 6 miles from, and opposite, San Francisco. The gardens bear a perpetual bloom the year round, and for beauty of adornment are unexcelled. The private residences are, many of them, palaces of comfort and beauty. The business houses vie with those of the largest metropolis. Manufactories are in active operation along the water front, and "Oakland Harbor" makes a fine display of shipping at all seasons of the year. This feature of the city is in the hands of the U. S. government. Oakland is a city of schools and churches. Of the latter (including missions) there are 80. In addition there is a prosperous Y. M. C. A. There 21 public schools and about 200 teachers. There are about 30 colleges and private schools of various sizes. The following newspapers are published: Times, morning, daily and weekly; Enquirer, evening, daily and weekly; Tribune, evening, daily and weekly; Journal (German) weekly; Signs of the Times (Seventh Day Adventist) weekly, Saturday Press, weekly; Echoes, weekly; East Oakland Mirror, weekly. The city has a free public library, with 22,000 volumes. The city has all the appointments of a first-class city, including city hall, fire department, police department, water works, gas and electric lights, well paved streets, good drainage, etc. Tel., W. U. and P. P., also telephone system. Exp., W., F. & Co., Pacific and local expresses. Pop., 60,000. Mail, daily. A. W. Bishop, P. M.

LADIES There are many imitations but only one VIAVI. VIAVI IS KING!
There is no degree of beauty, intelligence or amiability which compensates for a diseased body in a woman. Indeed there is no beauty, intelligence or amiability which bad health will not soon undermine. Neither wealth, position nor opportunity can compensate for the absence of health. VIAVI brings happiness, because it makes women well. It is an absorption treatment which ladies can use at home, and it has succeeded where every other treatment failed. Consultation and a health book free.

REDDING.

The co. seat of Shasta Co., is situated at the head of the Sacramento valley, on the California & Oregon R. R. It is a distributing point for Trinity Co., connected by a daily stage to Weaverville, a distance of 52 miles, the passenger fare being $6.50. A line of daily stages also leave Redding daily for Lake View, Ore., via Fall City in Shasta Co., Bieber in Lassen Co., and Adin and Alturas in Modoc Co. The lumber interests, mines of coal, iron, lime, gold and silver are certain to make Redding a city of considerable commercial importance in the near future. Public buildings are first class—has a beautiful court house. A sanitarium for miners and the public, established and conducted by Dr. B. E. Stevenson, which is a two-story structure, with ample accomodation. Among the fine buildings may also be noted the Masonic Temple, a four-story brick structure, costing $35,000, and the New Depot Hotel, the first-class and leading one, conducted by Gillespie & Parker, successful, practical hotel men, who have a national reputation for their eminence as hotel proprietors, and the wants of the guests are anticipated and supplied.

In the city are 5 excellent schools and 4 churches, and the Episcopal denomination has recently established a mission. There are 2 newspapers, the Free Press and the Democrat. They are both weekly, and excellent local newspapers. There are two banks, several large general stores carrying immense stocks, a saw and planing mill, a foundry and machine shop and a cigar factory. Both gas and electricity are used for illuminating purposes, and the Redding Electric & Power Company have recently put in a plant to furnish electric power for all purposes required. Exp., W., F. & Co. Tel., W. U. and P. P. Pop., 2,200. Mail, daily. Chauncey C. Bush, P. M.

SACRAMENTO.

The capital of the state and co. seat of Sacramento Co., is situated at the junction of the Sacramento and American rivers, 90 miles by rail and 125 by water northeast of San Francisco. The locality was first settled in 1839, and as early as 1849 it was a town of some note, being the objective point for immigrants who crossed the plains, and also a rendezvous and fitting-out place for parties from San Francisco, on their way to the gold mines. It was incorporated as a city Feb 27, 1850. It is an important railroad centre; S. P. Co. trains from San Francisco pass through it daily, including the overland via Ogden, and trains for Portland via Marysville, and other important towns in California and Oregon. It is also connected by the S. P. Co. lines with Placerville, via Folsom and other towns in Sacramento and El Dorado counties and with Oroville via Marysville. In addition to the facilities for communication by rail, there are steamers plying regularly to San Francisco, as well as to Marysville, Colusa and other points on the Sacramento and Feather rivers. The state capital was permanently located at Sacramento in 1854, and in 1869 the present capitol building was completed at a cost, including grounds, of about $2,500,000. It is a beautiful and commodious structure. The fairs of the State Agricultural association are held in this city, in September of each year, and for this purpose the society has erected a large pavilion. They also have a park and race course for the exhibit of stock. Religion is represented by Baptist, Congregational, Christian, Episcopal, Evangelical, Hebrew, Methodist, Roman Catholic, Presbyterian and other church organizations, several of them occupying handsome and commodious edifices. There are in the city several banks, 3 daily newspapers and various weekly, semi-weekly and monthly publications. There are good public schools, several private schools and business colleges. The state library contains about 60,000 volumes, and the free public library 12,000 volumes. The order of Odd Fellows maintains a library of 8,000 volumes. Sacramento is lighted with gas and electricity. The water works is the property of the city. The streets are wide and cross at right angles. The business portion is built of brick, and the residence portion mainly of wood. Street car and telephone communication is maintained throughout the city and with surrounding towns. Tel., W. U. and P. P. Exp., W., F. & Co. Pop., 30,000. James O. Coleman, P. M.

SAN DIEGO.

This city is located on the Bay of San Diego, 609 miles south of San Francisco and within 25 miles of the Mexican boundary line. The corporate limits of San Diego include the suburbs of National City and Coronado, an area of about 120 square miles. The harbor formed by the Bay of San Diego is unsurpassed on the Pacific coast, being 13 miles in length and provided with extensive wharves. Coronado Beach, the famous resort, is directly west of the city and is reached by ferry. There are 226 miles of streets in the city, 40 miles being graded and 5 miles in the business center being paved with asphalt. There are 12 miles of electric street railway and 5 miles of cable road. The city is provided with 40 miles of sewers, 10 miles of gas mains, 65 miles of water mains and a good fire department. There are 16 public schools and 30 religious societies. A public library, containing 9,000 volumes, a fine court house, a new opera house and many large business blocks give the city a metropolitan appearance. The assessed valuation for 1893 is $15,751,000, and the rate of taxation is $1.25 per hundred on the full valuation. There are 5 banks and 2 daily newspapers, the San Diegan Sun (Democratic) and the Union (Republican). The climate is considered the most equable on the coast. The Southern California Railway is the only one reaching the city. Two lines of steamships, the Pacific Coast and the Pacific Mail, touch at the point. Motor line to Sweetwater and Tuana. OTIS & COMPANY, REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE.

COL. ELMER OTIS (U. S. ARMY, RETIRED), MANAGER.
1025 Fourth Street, SAN DIEGO, CALIFORNIA.
Since it is of the first importance to strangers to be assured of the reliability of the real estate firm with which they have dealings, especial attention is called to the fact that COL. ELMER OTIS, U. S. A., retired, is Manager of this Company. We refer to his record, which is without spot or blemish; which covers the last forty years of public life, and which gives the surest possible guarantee of reliability. He will buy for you, sell for you, or manage your property in your absence, and you are safe in trusting him to the fullest extent. The list of property he offers is exceptionally large, and comprises all kinds from a 30,000 acre Mexican grant to a cheap town lot. LIFE AND FIRE INSURANCE IN LEADING COMPANIES.
